1973 WHEAT ALLOTMENT NOTICES GO TO PRODUCER

Notices of 1973 wheat allotments and an official explanation of the 1973 wheat set-aside program will soon be mailed to producers in Appomattox County, according to J.P.Alvis, Jr., Chairman of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

All participants will set aside an acreage equal to 86 percent of their farm domestic allotment. will earn wheat certificate payments based on their domestic allotment, and will be eligible for Commodity Credit Corporation loans on wheat grown on participating farms.

An additional set-aside option also is offered, Mr. Alvis said. Contingent upon their 1972 wheat acreage, producers may set aside an additional acreage up to 150 percent of their domestic wheat allotment in return for a payment of 88 cents a bushel times established yield times acres of additional set-aside.

A producer who accepts the additional set-aside option also agrees to limit his production of 1973 wheat. The limitation is determined by the formula: 1972 spring and winter wheat planted acreage on the farm plus any 1972 additional set-aside, minus the 1973 additional set-aside.

"The big point to make at this time is that a wheat grower in the 1973 wheat program can go one of two ways: One – maintain required set-aside and conserving base acreages with no limit on his wheat acreage. Two – maintain required set-aside, additional set-aside, and conserving base acreages and limit his wheat acreage," the ASCS committee chairman said. "He should check with the county ASCS office for full details."

A number of other important items are covered in the official explanation, including a reminder that 1973 is the year when a farmer who did not plant a program crop during the past two seasons can lose his allotment if he fails to plant for a third successive year.

Substitution provisions are spelled out. Soybeans, corn, grain sorghum, and barley may be substituted for wheat to preserve allotment history.

"Then, too, I want to remind producers that set-aside acreage – both the required and any additional set-aside – must be of the same average quality as the other cropland on the farm," Mr. Alvis said.

Producers may ask for set-aside inspection and measurement service from the county ASCS office in order to assure themselves well ahead of time that set-aside land is acceptable. This service is offered at cost.

Allotment notices to wheat producers are sent several months before sign-up, at which time farmers give official notice of their intent to participate in the set-aside programs and designate their set-aside acreage. The official sign-up period has not yet been announced.

INJURIES GROWING CONCERN IN VIRGINIA

This year projections are another 11.5 million bicycles will be sold across the country. The figure reinforces cycle enthusiasts' contention that theirs is becoming the fastest growing sport and exercise form in the United States. It is also becoming a solution to the social problems of pollution and automobile congestion on the roads and streets.

Bicycle sales are increasing, but unfortunately, the tremendous growth in the use of the bicycle has been accomplished by a similiar increase in biking accidents and fatalities, says the Insurance Information Institute.

In Virginia alone last year, 742 bike accidents resulting in 703 personal injuries, and 16 deaths were reported.

Statistics show that in most bicycle accidents the cyclist violates a traffic law. This inattention or failure to yield the right-of-way accounts for the largest number of mishaps, according to the Institute. In less than one-third of bike accidents, the motor vehicle driver violates a traffic rule or regulation.

Rural bicycling accidents generally are the more severe type. Though most accidents occur on city streets, more than 50 percent of the fatalities and a large percentage of the serious injuries occur in rural areas.

The institute suggests that bike riders should obey all the traffic laws, familiarize themselves with safety precautions of bicycling, and at the same time points out that motorists should watch out for bike riders.

Childers Reunion

The reunion of John and James E. Childers was held Sunday, August 27, at the Woodman Hall in Appomattox, with a good attendance and the fellowship of relatives and friends was wonderful. A bountiful and beautifully prepared lunch was enjoyed by all. Besides relatives and friends from Appomattox and the surrounding area, there were those from Danville, Altavista, Petersburg and Lynchburg, Virginia. Also some from Baltimore, Md. and the state of Delaware. We said our good-byes with hopes of meeting again next year on the fourth Sunday in August.

Boy Scouts Dedicate Woodlands To Wise Use

More than 75,000 acres of woodlands owned by Boy Scouts across the nation were dedicated today to the permanent practice of good forestry as Scouts in 22 states joined local ceremonies in observance of National Boy Scout Tree Farm Day.

The individual celebrations marked the completion of a four-month Scout drive to meet Tree Farm standards and qualify their forest property for enrollment in the American Tree Farm System. A total of 90 properties were registered into the national program.

The American Tree Farm System is dedicated to scientific forest management which promotes the conservation and wise use of our nation's renewable forest resources. The program, now made up of more than 31 thousand private landowners with 74 million acres of woodlands, is sponsored by the American Forest Institute, Washington, D.C.

The Scouting project, begun last May, included forest-improvement work which lead to merit badge experience for individual Scouts, as well as advancement of the aims of Scouting's Save Our American Resources (SOAR) national conservation program.

At Boy Scout National Headquarters in North Brunswick, N.J., Irving Feist, past-president of the Boy Scouts of America marked the event with the dedication of a 60 acre tract of forest along side the Headquarters building.

"The Scout-owned property we are recognizing today as an official Tree Farm is not only growing repeated crops of wood for our nation's future needs. it is also providing improved wildlife habitat, protecting our watersheds, improving the quality of the environment, and providing recreational and educational opportunities for Boy Scouts everywhere", Feist said.

To be eligible for the American Tree Farm System, forest land must be privately owned; managed for the growth and harvest of repeated crops of wood; and adequately protected from fire, insect, disease and destructive grazing damage. Management must also include provisions for prompt reforestation following all tree harvesting.

To practice forest management, Tree Farmers should plant seedlings on underbrocked land; cut undesirable tree species and diseased trees; thin heavily-stocked timber stands to open the stands to more sunlight; convert marginally-productive forest stands to better quality trees; prescribe-burn under carefully controlled conditions to reduce the hazard of destroying wildlife; and harvest mature timber ready for market.

SAFE DRIVING TIPS

Can parents learn a lesson from their teenage sons and daughters? Apparently so, since a survey conducted recently indicates that twice as many teenagers as adults use seat belts. Parents should take cue from their kids in this matter.
